

WESTERLY

Thursday afternoon Horace Vargiles, 27 Commerce street, reported to Sheriff Casey that his home had been entered and $100 taken. The thieves entered by a window in the front of his house. The bank belonging to his children containing $25 each were taken and in a sideboard drawer there was $50 which was taken also. The loss was discovered by Mrs. Vargiles about noon Thursday when she went to get the money to pay a bill that was due. The window had been pried open with a sharp instrument and the curtain was left down. The break was made some time early Thursday morning, in the opinion of the police.

For the second night of the season the club's minarels Thursday evening at Silver Opera House the theatre was crowded. Every member was ready for his turn and the show went off in excellent style. The novelty dancing was especially good.

Materials have complained about the condition of the road between Westerly and Norwich. They claim large holes and big stones with many little stones have washed down the road until it is almost impassable and unsafe for automobiles to try to go over it. Thursday work was begun on the part between North Stonington and Preston. A full force of men will be put on the job by A. Vite. The stone crusher and steam shovel will soon be added to the equipment. This company is the same that built the state road between Pawcatuck and Preston last year and that put in the Watch Hill road several years ago.

The members of the C. A. C. B. L. seem glad to be at home once more, having been doing duty for the past month in Pawcatuck. They were dismissed by Captain McConnell and the cheering and hunting to get into their civilian clothes showed how happy and eager they were to be back here once more.

The body of Mrs. Mary J. Black, who died suddenly from heart trouble, Jan. 23, while seated in the Green & Stonington trolley car, at the Pawcatuck bridge, was removed from the vault on Wednesday, where it has rested for the past two months and was buried in St. Michael's new cemetery. The committal services at the grave were read by Rev. J. J. Keane. The bearers were Charles Arthur, Harold, William and Fred Clark and Antony Willet.

Prohibition Agents Matthew Flynn and Jeremiah A. Sherman have been assigned to duty in this section which covers a part of Providence, North Kingston, Westerly and all other towns in this section of Rhode Island. A close watch is being kept and a strict enforcement of the national prohibition act is planned.

The White Rock bridge, with planking loose and holes patched up, makes travel over this bridge dangerous. It was abandoned last year by the Shore Line Trolley company, the builders and owners, who offered it to the town of Westerly and Stonington. Both places rejected it as it was so badly out of repair and declared it unsafe for travel. The Stonington town officials erected a fence to stop the entrance but by degrees this fence was taken down, which leaves the bridge open to the public. This is a short cut from the North Stonington road into White Rock. Another fence is needed for the safety of the public.

Funeral services for George Arthur Davis were held at 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon at River Bend chapel. Rev. Mr. Walker, rector of Calvary Baptist church, officiated. Burial was in River Bend cemetery.

Wednesday about 3 a. m. several attempts were made on the west side of the river. Two men entered the home of George Brand and Charles Murphy on Courtland street and Herbert Hoadley of West Broad street. One of the men was found crouching in a corner of the dining room of Charles Murphy's and was ordered to leave which he did by going out the window. At the other two places the men were apprehended and ordered to get off the premises which they did. At Mr. Murphy's they secured some money. Not until an hour and a half after the robbery was Sheriff Casey notified, thus giving the burglars time to get out. Strangers have been about here with a large truck and no doubt intended looting these three houses had they not been detected.

A band of gypsies landed in Westerly Thursday and visited the stores during the day, telling fortunes.

At the block formerly known as the Segar block, now owned by John D. Triggs, on Broad street, the top floor is being renovated, papered and painted in readiness for Merrill Post, A. L., whose members have rented it for their club room. It will be in readiness for occupancy by April 1, the T. B. club having moved to the rooms facing on High street. This is one of the most slightly buildings in town.

The next session of the superior court will open at Kingston, R. I., the first Monday in April.

John Dawley of Wyoming, R. I., was a caller here Wednesday.

The death of Mrs. Louise La Bonte, 15, of 129 Canal street, occurred Wednesday afternoon at 5 o'clock, after a short illness with pneumonia. She was the widow of Dalphus La Bonte, of Westerly.

Westerly High school baseball team will start practice Monday on Vose park. Attorney John Gallagher, who has done the work with the team for the past three years, will coach the team again this year. A good strong team is assured for this season.

W. F. Truman, of Newton, Mass., was a caller here Thursday.

STONINGTON

At Calvary church, March 23th, at the weekly Lenten service, Rev. W. F. Borchert of St. Paul's church, Willimantic, will be the speaker.

The Mystic Oral school has purchased the safe which did service for about twenty-five years in the insurance office of J. S. Anderson.

Stonington High school was represented at the typewriting contest held at New Haven Saturday and Miss Lucy Chesbro and Constance DeGrange made a good showing in typewriting. Next year the school hopes to have the honor of winning a medal. Miss Chesbro stood a close second of getting a medal. Miss DeGrange did excellent work.

A band of gypsies passed through Stonington Thursday morning by automobile going toward Mystic. The band stopped and purchased meat in the borough.

Lawrence Brooks captured the prize offered by the First Baptist church of the A. R. C. for the best poster made by the members of the class.

The boys who broke the large plate glass window in Muller's store while playing ball in the street have to pay for the new glass which was set Wednesday.

Thursday morning the students of Stonington High school listened to a most interesting address by Rev. Dwight C. Stone, pastor of the Congregational church. Addresses were also made by Prof. W. R. Snyder and Rev. Clayton A. Burdick, pastor of the Pawcatuck Seventh Day Baptist church, Westerly.

J. A. Argas has had the road scraper out on the borough street this week, trying to put the roads here in condition. The warden is filling up the holes and leveling the ruts.

The question of a new town hall which came up here a few years ago and the picture of the building and plans of the proposed new town hall building was looked upon with interest, it being understood that the donor of the building would give the town a handsome structure which would hold all the valuable records, as soon as the building material came down. Now that there is a drop in the prices in this line, the people here are hoping that the new town building may become a reality. The town records have been preserved for the past 256 years, ever since the incorporation of the town in 1666. These are in three large safes in the town clerk's office. They are well preserved and in excellent condition. The records of the probate court and the assessors of taxes are all in the custody of Frank H. Hinchley. The building where they are now located is a two-story frame building. A fire proof building with fireproof vaults rather than the ordinary steel safes should safeguard these valuable records. In the new building to be given (the donor's name has been withheld by special request) at the town clerk's office would have all such equipment.

Mrs. Edmund P. Hyde and son have returned home from Lawrence hospital, New London.

Rev. and Mrs. Henry M. Thompson are entertaining Mrs. Jean Churchill and child, of Hartford.

George Thompson and family will move to Philadelphia where Mr. Thompson is employed.
